Start of the “Bracco Foundation meets” cycle

Five encounters with leading scientists and experts, the leitmotiv is “tomorrow” in science, technology, economy and society to look in depth at current problems and future scenarios. This is the programme of the cycle of conversations about the future entitled “Bracco Foundation Meets”, which begins at the end of March and will continue throughout 2012. The cycle of debates, coordinated by journalist Giosuè Boetto Cohen, is a true “laboratory of ideas” and offers an itinerary starting from prospects and opportunities for the young and then looking at the economic future of our country. It will be a voyage towards the new frontiers of scientific research, and also a reflection on the new face of the city of Milan.