

10 voices for 10 years: the choral narration by Bracco Foundation to tell of art and science

For its 10th anniversary, Bracco Foundation launches “10 voices per 10 years: words that leave their mark”, a choral narration of 10 video messages from personalities from the worlds of science, arts and civil society who share the values and commitment of Bracco Foundation.

For its 10th anniversary, Bracco Foundation launches “10 voices per 10 years: words that leave their mark”, a choral narration of 10 video messages from personalities from the worlds of science, arts and civil society who share the values and commitment of Bracco Foundation.

From the promotion of art and science to the access to culture, from environmental sustainability to feminine empowerment, from training to support for fragility: crucial issues in the present day to which Bracco Foundation, in these 10 years of activity, has helped to offer concrete responses.

This choral narration begins in February and ends in December 2020: every month a video message will be published to coincide with the related World Days.

The inaugural video on female scientific vocations, published on the World Day of Women and Girls in science, featuring Ersilia Vaudo, Chief Diversity Officer of the European Space Agency and part of the #100esperte network.